A: Knjazevac, is a Turkish word for "drummer" or "drum." In your case, you're dealing with the etymology of Knjazevac: As VASHTI.M. describes it, it is a Turkish word that comes from the Turkish word "knaz" meaning "drum," but it can also be translated as "percussionist," "an obscure term for a drummer" and also a "person who beats metal, aka someone who plays the darbuka (striking surface of Turkish darbucak drums). A person from this village was probably a drummer or a person who used to play the darbuka or drums. When the word "knaz" was used as a term for a percussionist, it would be translated to knjaz or knjazevac. So, you're dealing with drummer? Flemish bond Flemish bond is a debt security which was developed in the Belgian financial sector. The security is issued by Flemish public-sector entities and can be issued in the form of a preferred bond (Flemish: VS-bond) or a preferred stock (Flemish: STV-bond).
