Pulseway Manager is a PC monitoring application that acts as a server which you can pair with your mobile phone or tablet to control and monitor workstations and servers. Its intuitive interface includes all the essential functions to monitor and solve problems. The app can be used to send commands to the PC, access files, kill processes, start, stop or restart services, turn off users, log off or reboot them, send remote shutdown, restart and log off messages, among other things. The agent scans workstations and servers to detect their current state. In case a PC needs to be restarted, the application automatically detects the user's password and informs the user about this. In case there is an antivirus disabled, the system is automatically updated. You can also monitor system resources, such as RAM, CPU and HDD usage, starting, stopping and restarting services, open ports, programs and scheduled tasks. Pulseway Manager provides both standard monitoring and alarm functions. It is the perfect tool to check the computer status, identify which services need to be updated, restart servers and configure security certificates. You can create a maintenance schedule, e.g. set a time and date when the PC will be rebooted. Moreover, the application lets you remotely control a PC. You can remotely log off, reboot, shutdown, start, stop and restart the system, or perform various tasks. In case a user issues a command while the application is not running, the agent will display all the required information. This can be useful for administrators who can remotely control multiple workstations.
