Etoy Roland TR-909 Instantly Review By Ben Trounstone As hard as it is to believe, they made a drum machine that beats! I'm not talking about the old Roland TR-303 either, but the bigger brother, the TR-909. Today we review the Etoy Roland TR-909 – the king of kick drums everywhere. Unlike the 303 which was no more than a drum machine, the TR-909 looked like a floor model, but sounded like the holy grail of drum machines. It was the most realistic, organic sounding electronic drum machine of all times. In fact, the ones that kept them viable at the time were MC Hammer and John Cougar Mellencamp. If you ever wanted to have an authentic drum set, you have it right here, literally. The sound is amazing. The emulation of it blows my mind, and what's even more amazing is it even makes my old electric baby-grand make this little-tiny smokin

The new stereo headphones with noise cancelling ability costs 270 dollars and it is available to sale at the Apple Store. It's a little bit expensive but we might see another headphones like this one in the future. This really good headphones contain big spacious sound and it can cancel sounds like traffic and many others sounds outside the headphones. The noise cancelling headphones I bought this headphones from Amazon but the others options are available at the Apple Store. When you buy the headphone, you have to make sure that you will purchase from the official sellers because there are many fake sellers. The one I bought from Amazon gives you the guarantee that you will get the right headphones. I tried these headphones in my studio and I loved the sound. You can listen to the songs and full tracks with just head phones and you will hear it as the original and studio version. I also tried the studio version and they are much better than the home version. It is much better than the most of headphones because they contain the bass and the mids. You can use the home headphones for home, you can use the studio headphones at the studio. I use them all the time for my recording and I tested them for an hour and the noise cancelling ability is really great. The headphones have the ability to cancel the noise and your own unwanted external noise. The noise cancelling headphones will automatically switch to active mode when you put it in the ear or with the noise. You will feel the effortless quality when listening to the songs. The noise cancelling headphones have the ability to cancel many kinds of sounds and when you put them on they will automatically switch to active mode. I love the sound quality of these headphones and I just love them. They are a must buy! You can also see the review of the studio noise cancelling headphones at the Amazon.
