Download Xforce keygen for v10.1 Professional Ireland's first diabetes school in Galway has been given a vote of thanks by the European Diabetes Association. The Galway Clinical and Education Centre, run by Dr Isobel Doyle, opened in July last year. The school's team of 25 staff and students from around the country learn to meet the growing needs of adults with diabetes. The work is accredited by the Irish Medical Council and designed to equip participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to help them self-manage their condition. The European Diabetes Association (EDA) has accredited a three-year special diabetes school for adults, and also awarded it two important research grants. The awardees are the Galway Clinical and Education Centre for adults with diabetes, and the Centre for Health Prevention for schoolchildren. 'A real success story' Dr Doyle said the centre and its successful record have been recognised as a real success story. "This school has been recognised as a centre of excellence by the EDA, and we have received funding to develop a programme of research to examine the needs of adults with diabetes. "The new criteria that have been used to evaluate our school, based on standards and guidelines, may serve as a model for others in the future." Dr Doyle said the new criteria included evaluations of the skills and knowledge of teaching staff and students, and the social and economic environment of the centre. The EDA is an association of 62 national European associations of diabetes societies that provide support to clinicians, educators and patients in the field of diabetes medicine. 3da54e8ca3
