The best way to send a file for printing is always to convert it to PDF first. In case you need to ensure that this PDF file will be sent to our website, the file will need to be sent as a print job. In that case, you are given the chance to send the print job as a GET request to the server using the REST API. It is very simple and you can use the PHP SDK to perform the get request. The printed PDF can be easily integrated within databases, document libraries or maybe online servers. And because of novaPDF OEM Crack's modular design, it is possible to customize the generated PDFs to whatever extent you like. And of course, if you only want to be able to convert your file for printing and embed it into an internal website as a "file on demand" solution, you can also do that. Features: * Import/Export * Dynamic buttons (sizes) * PDF exporting to external resources * Embedding in internal websites * PDF direct embedding in databases (SQL Server) * HTML form fields support * HTTP GET requests * Send the print job via REST API * Custom fonts and graphics * Text watermarking * Text overlays * Email sending * Printing profiles * Batch printing * Automatic watermarking * Direct printing without sending through the site * Supports OEM updates for all Windows versions What's new in 3.13 - API for new user features - New PrintJob action - Better handling of errors and
