. . . . A: The combat phase in the game has two broad categories: Attack/Counter Attack Use/Defend As I remember from this article, the issue is that shooting or hitting the enemy is not enough to make them go away, so you need to counter attack them. If you are in doubt about the exact behavior, read the article (if you have it), or try out the video (if you have it). First, a little fun. Project partners are seeking fresh and exciting ways to enhance the aesthetic feeling of their business by increasing the visual appeal of their physical space. Some partners are adding artwork and sculptures to a lobby, others are integrating their business into an industrial mall-type setting. Then there are companies that are playing to their business's core strengths – acquiring a building and then putting their creative stamp on it. A building can be a huge asset to a business, especially a business as large as Sears, which owns 145 locations and employs over 89,000 people. Whichever venue you choose for your business, a visually appealing environment is an important part of marketing your business and establishing a positive first impression with potential clients and customers. This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to significantly increase the perception of your business. Enjoy this opportunity while it lasts! Significant opportunities for partners: Install artwork, sculpture, or a new "look" to lobby, reception/foyer area Revitalize an existing space and create a new environment Upgrade the infrastructure of an existing building Add a "wow" factor to a building with a unique environment Increase the perceived value of a building with an artistic design What is involved in the project? Three to five designs, up to $3,500. How to submit a project: Attach a digital image or video link of the space. Provide written description of the project. Submit image/video link to arts@shelton.org NOTE: All images and videos are moderated by our Marketing and Art Director. Please allow 7-10 days for review.
