Harmonic ProMedia Carbon Coder 3.19.1.35728 Portable Harmonic ProMedia Carbon Coder 3.19.1.35728 Portable In my previous post, I wrote about default encryption for channel. One of the benefits of using channel is that we can dynamically load a package into a channel. If we are using a local environment, we usually do not need the encryption for channels. Is it possible to skip the encryption for channel? If yes, how can we do that? In this post, I am going to show you how to do that. Version Information Before we begin with the solution, I want you to know what kind of information I am expecting from the repository. I am expecting the information about version, whether its built on a Linux machine or a Mac machine, and other information. So, if you want to demonstrate the solution, I am expecting the same information. Metadata If we run go get github.com/golang/dep/... inside our repository, we will receive a lot of information on what the repository contains. I am interested in the metadata information. To get the metadata information, we run go get -v github.com/golang/dep/cmd/dep-gen/..... If you want to get more information, follow this link. Repository If we run go get github.com/golang/dep/cmd/dep-gen/... inside our repository,
