A question: As far as I know, null is just a special value of any type which can be used to represent the absence of a value. However, things are a bit more complicated when it comes to the types. For example, in the following code, null is equal to 0 and "" is equal to 0. int i = null; String s = ""; System.out.println(i == s); //false System.out.println(s == i); //true Are the instances of int and String act as the objects in the absence of null or "" in Java? A: Are the instances of int and String act as the objects in the absence of null or "" in Java? Yes, in the sense, null and "" are both the absence of anything. The main difference is how the context interprets them, null is often used in a strict context, e.g. if you do not initialize them you will get a compile error. Whereas "" on the other hand, is interpreted as a "wider" context, it is commonly used in an if or while statement, where its value will be ignored and never evaluated. Need for Speed Most Wanted Pc Cheats for Hack, Crack, APK, Q: How to get current working directory using Node.js I have function isValidFileName(path) which returns true if a path is a valid file name. Unfortunately, I have problem with directory paths. I know I can add path.replace(/^[a-zA-Z]\//, '$+') before for simulating the current working directory on frontend if path string is a directory but I want to avoid changing to directory manually. My function now: function isValidFileName(fileName) { return!isNaN(fileName) && /[a-zA-Z0-9]+/.test(fileName); } A: You could use the path module: require('path'); function isValidFileName(fileName) { return!isNaN(fileName) && /[a-zA-Z0-91+/.test(path.basename(fileName)); } Detection of tumor-associated DNA content changes after induction of T-celldependent anti-tumor immune responses by ionizing radiation in murine lung tumor cells. The effects of radiation (RT) on lung tumorigenesis in mice were investigated. The B16F1 melanoma cell line (melanoma) was used for induction of tumorigenesis in C57BL/6 mice. The tumor cells were labeled with CFSE. Anti-tumor immunity was induced in mice after immunization with the tumor cells and in vitro stimulation with IL-2. The tumorigenicity of the immunized mice was followed-up after radiation was applied to the primary tumor. Hematoxylin and eosin staining revealed that the tumor cells in the irradiated group were fragmented and that the tumor microenvironment was destroyed. The tumorigenicity of the irradiated tumors decreased to almost 0.4% of that of the non-irradiated group, compared with that in the control group
