If you're interested in using this asset pack in a commercial project, please leave a comment below and I will send you some extra tiles if you're interested! NOTE: This tileset is also available in my dedicated Tilesets section on my website! A blend of a few of my favorite references, the tileset for the soundtrack found in Iron Man 2 and Joe Johnston's outrageous 1989 John Carpenter classic The Thing. The tileset is based upon the 90's movie The Thing with Kurt Russell (who already has a badass town building tileset of his own) and are meant to look wild and a bit hairy - from the huge hands to the massive bald foreheads the tileset is a bit of a tongue in cheek homage to the movie. It's not only used on the (clones of) town buildings and setting tiles but also for monster tiles and even for the characters as a minifig skin (and even a couple of comments by the Doctor!). This minifig skin includes the base character as well as the Doctor and his companion. It's a ton of fun to use for some neat little builds and custom user interfaces on your projects. This also works really well as a starting point for a custom google map (just use the " d41b202975

The game lets you choose from two settings: Adventure Mode and Collect Mode. In Adventure Mode, the player will traverse the map, explore the surrounding area and battle monsters. In Collect Mode, there is no exploration, no enemies, and no battle. Just a desolate world that leads the player towards a mysterious destination where they will find a shrine or a temple. The game also lets you share your progress in the game over Facebook, Twitter, and other social networks. You can also create your own adventures with the custom tiles and game settings included in the tileset, which you can edit at your convenience.* You can also edit the tileset, and use it in your own projects, with no need for a license. This is my first RPG, and it is already finished. Date: February 9, 2018 Source: RPG Maker Duration: 20 minutes Tools: Not specified Tags: This asset pack comes with all tiles in flat and has been edited with a 2x2 pixels transparent layer. Before you begin, please note that the tiles are base size 48x48 pixels. The game uses a tilesheet that uses the autotiles feature in RPG Maker MV/MZ. You need to have an autotile map to use this pack. Uploading: You can paste the tiles into one of the layers in a map, then adjust the layers and order. pack comes in a 2x2pixels transparent PNG, and you can use it in your own project as long as you edit it, and can use it in your own project without need of a license.

----- Tile Set: A bit of a history on the tile set, it began as a small project to create a retro pixel art pack for RPG Maker, and to establish a fresh RPG Maker style. The game is similar to a simple adventure puzzle game for those that love old SNES and Final Fantasy games, and you can say it's a reminiscence of the RPG Maker 2000, and a tribute to those retro classic JRPG games. The main character in the game is a young man that is trying to find a lost girlfriend.
