Unibestest.kr TRAINING AND TECHNOLOGY MPI introduces a comprehensive, easy-to-use video training platform for training operators on the MPI MPI+ course and its scenarios. The platform includes advanced 360° video capabilities for training operators on the MPI+ Trainer. The MPI+ Trainer solution consists of a pre-installed curriculum library with a variety of scenarios, a computerized trainer that guides trainees through scenarios step-by-step, and a mobile app that enables operators to access the trainer's content on any device. "The Operator Training Solution from MPI is an important step toward greater safety in the mining industry and an efficient way to deliver effective training to operators at all levels," says Helge Hees, president of MPI. "We have designed a single comprehensive training solution for the operator that will serve not only our own instructors and students, but will also benefit other training providers and education institutions who need high quality, streamlined, portable training content." The platform offers greater interactivity with current and future MPI courses, delivering a more dynamic, engaging, and intuitive learning experience. Training is now more cost-effective, as videos can be used in place of scenarios in an instructor-led classroom. Available on any device, and in any format, the MPI Operator Training Solution offers a greater variety of learning options, such as individual learning, group learning, standalone training, and assessments. The next generation of remote mine training that was introduced at the 2016 AIMEX in Beijing, China is now available at MPI's newest training center in Chino, California. The facility will house roughly 30 2D/3D printers and seven high fidelity model shop machines to support the production of realistic, 3D, remote mine training in Chino, near the RANCH Technologies facility in Ukiah. The radiological correlates of delayed onset peripheral nerve injury. Thirty-seven patients with 41 lower limb peripheral nerve injuries were studied. In the majority of cases (87%) the nerve injury was caused by a penetrating injury. The commonest mechanism of injury was gunshot wound, which caused significant sensory and motor nerve injury. The prognosis and outcome of the injury was determined by the severity of the nerve injury. A nerve injury of less than a centimetre in length is not likely to
