The Application keeps you informed about the health and status of your Solid State Drives. You can update the Firmware and download apps in the Online Store of ADATA and transfer files from Windows to SSD and vice versa. If you've been looking forward to the new Facebook App 2.0 update, which will be launched next month, AppleInsider has your first look preview. The changes include a tabbed user interface, a new chat section, and updated privacy controls, as well as the ability to customize your home page, profile page, and chat page. More importantly, there's also a new "Hide Content" feature, which should be available to the "more than 500 million monthly active users." Facebook's current and previous iPhone and iPod touch apps feature the new page design, and the company's current Facebook for Mac app offers more than page-like features like News Feed and Chat. All that calls for a fresh new look for this year's Macworld. So what's Apple doing to spruce up the environment and show off its (still rock-solid) design chops? Here's a first look at Apple's new Macworld Expo 2010 campaign, which includes several new music videos (see the first one here) and a snazzy new app. We won't be at the show this year, but know that the state of the Mac world is still strong. In any case, we'll be at the show to bring you the best previews of upcoming products, give you the scoop on all the announcements, and give you a unique opportunity to ask questions to the Apple booth. Wait, what's this? A Macworld Expo 2010 ticket! How about yourself? That's the ticket you'll need to attend the December 3 Macworld Expo in San Francisco. The press conference starts at 10 AM Pacific time on December 3 (9 AM Eastern time); it's free and open to the public, so please try not to be too late. When we return from the show, we'll give you the lowdown on everything Apple, so you'll be ready for the big show on December 3. Need something to squeeze in before Macworld Expo? Here are our top picks for this week. Download ARC Software's(R) ARCWebs (Paid) for Mac v3.1.1.
