Bérard and Cephalandoa tinctoria. In this study, the antimicrobial activities of the essential oils from Juniperus communis, L. Bérard and Cephalandoa tinctoria subsp. tinctoria, against a wide range of microorganisms were assessed. Both Juniperus and Cephalandoa essential oils were active against Gram-positive bacterial strains; however, the Juniperus oil was only active against Staphylococcus aureus and Cephalandoa-thiorhodana spp. strains. The Juniperus oil was also active against Candida spp., but only against the C. glabrata species and C. tropicalis strains. The C. tinctoria oil was more active against Gram-negative bacteria than against Gram-positive bacteria. 26
