1. Technical Field The invention relates to a liquid crystal composition that can improve outdoor visibility and a liquid crystal display device using the liquid crystal composition.
2. Related Art In a liquid crystal display device, a liquid crystal composition is enclosed between a pair of substrates, and a display operation is performed by applying a voltage across the substrates via electrodes, so that the alignment of the liquid crystal composition is varied. In such a liquid crystal display device, an increased amount of a voltage is applied to a liquid crystal element for suppressing light leakage, and a liquid crystal composition that can obtain a higher voltage is required. In order to improve the voltage-dependent dispersion characteristics, it has been proposed to mix a liquid crystal composition comprising a combination of negative dielectric anisotropy and positive dielectric anisotropy with a liquid crystal composition comprising a combination of positive dielectric anisotropy and negative dielectric anisotropy. Such a liquid crystal composition is disclosed in JP-

A-2005-320418. Tissue and plasma distribution of [3H]pyridostigmine and its prodrug, PD2215.

The tissue and plasma distribution of [3H]pyridostigmine, its prodrug, PD2215, and its desethyl derivative, PD2215-E, were studied in rats and dogs in vivo, and in dogs in vitro.

[3H]Pyridostigmine, [3H]PD2215, and [3H]PD2215-E were administered intravenously and orally to rats and dogs. Tissue samples were obtained at various time intervals after the dosing. Tissue distribution of the prodrug,

PD2215, was c6a93da74d
