we will be using the avio bluetooth home theater speaker to stream our video to. this device is an attractive and affordable option if you want a chromecast, but don't want to use a google home or google chromecast. though avio only cost less than $80 and is considered by many to be a much more reasonably priced option. it does, however, feature the same far-field mic that google use for chromecast, so it is ideal for those who use it for this purpose. additionally, this speaker is compatible with most devices, unlike the google chromecast for example, which can be used only on certain devices. you can also use the aomleaps device with an hdmi cable on your tv, if you prefer, and use a different avio bluetooth speaker for your system, and if you are not certain that your tv supports hdmi, then the speaker can be paired with your television, using the included adapter, or you can also use a portable bluetooth wireless speaker. however, please note that if you do use avio, that you get a free set of stickers with your device, or if you buy a pair of them, you'll also be entitled to a free chromecast as well. if you are using an apple iphone, ipad or ipod touch, then you will be able to use the "apple tv" app, which is available from apple appstore. the "apple tv" app is specifically designed for the apple tv streaming device or apple tv streaming box, but it can also be used for certain iphones, ipads or ipods.
