Correction: This story has been updated to show that the San Antonio Fire Department has responded to a call and that the cause of the fire is unknown. A massive blaze lit up the sky Friday night in South Texas, one of the largest wildfires in recent memory. The San Antonio Fire Department said the large fire broke out in the Brooks Canyons of the Davis Mountains, just west of the Hondo Mountains, about 20 miles south of Laredo. The department said the blaze broke out at about 10:15 p.m. and that one person was injured but not seriously. The department said it made a large number of firefighters available for the incident, but they were not needed. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it's believed to be accidental
