oxide emissions from sewage sludge landfill sites to population and economic development using a model-based approach. Spatial and temporal variability in nitrous oxide (N₂O) emissions in relation to population and economic development is investigated. The data include area-based population and gross domestic product (GDP) at basin-wide level for Great Britain. The data are used as a basis for N₂O emissions from sludge landfills in the drainage basins of England and Wales and Scotland.
The technical data comprise the emission rates and distributions of N₂O and ammonium
